

WEATHER—Cloudy, warmer; Saturday light rain.

FINAL RESULTS EDITION

PRICE ONE CENT.

The

The World

"Circulation Books Open to All."

WEATHER—Cloudy, warmer; Saturday light rain.

FINAL RESULTS EDITION

PRICE ONE CENT.

GILLETTE CONFESSES ON THE STAND HE ALLOWED GRACE BROWN TO DROWN

JOCKEY MILLER BALKS A KILLING

Takes Cabochon Out in Stretch and Easily Beats the Heavily Played Yachtist—Mr. Wright, on New York, Wins Amateur Cup.

By FRANK W. THORP.

BENNINGS RACE TRACK, Nov. 30.—The Amateur Cup was the only feature at Benning today, and it was won in a clever fashion by New York rider, Mr. Wright, a newcomer in the ranks of amateur riders. Mr. Wright was several victories at Benning, and his mount had a big following today. He showed judgment in the race when he let Cabochon and Miller go on and make a place to the stretch. Then he came on and won cleverly from Niblick. Miller was again in evidence in the latter of winning mounts. He was with Temmerlake, the favorite. In the opening event, easily beating Zienap. In the second race, Wright was heavily played for a good thing, but Miller, on Cabochon, easily beat him in the final drive. The track was fast, weather fine and audience good.

Amateur Easily Best.

Amateur went to the front soon after the start, made all the running and won easily by two and one-half lengths from Miller, who closed strong and beat Reidmores a length and a half for the place.

BENNINGS RESULTS.

FIRST RACE—Temmerlake (6 to 5 and 2 to 5) 1, Zienap (2 to 1 for place) 2, Belle Strome 3.

SECOND RACE—Cabochon (3 to 1 and even) 1, Yorkist (7 to 10 for place) 2, Old Colony 3.

THIRD RACE—New York (3 to 5 and 5 to 5) 1, Niblick (7 to 10 for place) 2, Quaddille 3.

FOURTH RACE—Cloisteress (3 to 1 and 3 to 1) 1, Waterbearer (even for place) 2, How About You 3.

FIFTH RACE—Avanteur (7 to 5 and even) 1, Luretta (2 to 1 for place) 2, Reidmores 3.

SIXTH RACE—Cederstrome (8 to 3 and 3 to 5) 1, Lord of Vale (3 to 1 for place) 2, Pater 3.

TEN PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM N. Y. CITY JAIL

Wholesale Delivery in the Queens County Lockup as Keepers Sleep.

IRON BARS CUT AWAY.

Were of Soft Metal, Not Chilled

Steel, as Contract

Called For.

Aided by the somnolence of the keepers and the fact that the builders of the Queens County Jail in Long Island City put in soft iron bars where the specifications called for chilled steel, ten prisoners escaped from that venerable institution today. Four cells, cut a bar out of a window, dropped to the ground, climbed a board fence and emulated the fleet gazelle at 2 A. M.

The noise they made in escaping aroused six others of fifty-six prisoners confined on the ground floor of the jail. The six waited until the keepers let them out of their cells at 6 o'clock. Then they placidly climbed over the barred windows, scaled the fence and disappeared.

The names of the men are Thomas Simmonette, Fred Serrano, Alex. Templeton, John Leonard, Martin Thorpe, Fred Keller, Moses Nagle, James Singleton, Tom Miskell and Charles Smith. All were awaiting indictment for grand larceny, robbery or burglary with the exception of Templeton, who is a fugitive from justice from New Jersey and was awaiting extradition. A general alarm has been sent out to every precinct in the city, and the Sheriff will authorize a reward of $1,000 for the capture of the fugitives.

Jail of Many Escapes.

Many prisoners have kicked their way out, hidden out or butted out of the Long Island City jail, but this is the first time that a delivery from that historic structure has taken the form of an exodus. There were 100 persons confined in the building last night. Sixty of them remained were not taken into the consideration of the lucky ten of their night have got away too.

On the ground floor is located a section of the jail known as "The Flats." It was from this section that the prisoners escaped. There are twenty-eight cells on the floor opening into a wide corridor. The men were confined two to a cell.

Thomas Simmonette and John Leonard were cellmates in the cell farthest from the entrance to the corridor. Fred Serrano and Alex. Templeton shared the next cell.

Somewhere smuggled a hand saw or a rip saw or a buzz saw to Simmonette in a tin pudding, or something yesterday, and he concealed it until the time when it could be used.

Although the keepers are supposed to make tours through the corridors at regular intervals during the night, the prisoners were not disturbed in their iron work. The soft iron divided like putty and they were as careful in their movements that they awakened only six of their fellows in confinement. These were the men in the three cells next to those in which the ring-leaders were confined.

Tackled Window Next.

The others wanted the saw, but so much noise had been made in cutting the two cell doors that the four who had partly gained their liberty were afraid to take any more chances. They still had work to do.

At the southeast corner of the jail, on the ground floor, there is a window protected by alleged steel bars. The fugitives sawed one of the bars at the bottom, bent it, slid through the opening and dropped six feet to the ground. Thus far they had progressed to jail yard.

The six board fence stood between them and complete liberty. They scaled the fence, making a noise like a freight train crossing a trestle, landed outside and disappeared in the darkness.

At 6 o'clock keepers, following a custom of the jail went through the corridors awakening the prisoners with cheery salutations. The cells on the ground floor are opened automatically by a lever controlled from a central point in the corridor. Styles pulled the lever, the locks dropped from the cell doors and the prisoners swarmed out. The prisoners went on about their business.

The six knew full well that between them and the cold world outside there was nothing but an open window and a board fence. They negotiated these two obstacles without loss of time and accuracy and in the gray dawn in the direction of the Long Island Railroad tracks.

"Take Time by the Forelock."

Means not to delay ordering Evans' Ale

WIFE SLAYER TURNS PISTOL ON HIMSELF

A dramatic sequel to the murder of Catherine Bellomo, at No. 512 East Fourteenth street, was furnished this afternoon by Felix Bellomo, the husband of the woman, when he went into a hallway at No. 19 Lexington avenue and shot himself.

He is dying in Bellevue. He had been missing since his wife's body was discovered yesterday by his brothers. This act of Bellomo establishes the confession made by one of the brothers that Bellomo killed his wife. Evidently the husband heard of this confession.

GILLETTE CASE NEARS END

HERKIMER, Nov. 30.—The defense in the Gillette case rested at 4.30. The only witnesses besides Gillette were a half dozen factory girls who said Grace Brown, three weeks before she died, was despondent and often wished she was dead, and some others who testified to the good reputation of Gillette. Mr. Ward said he had two witnesses yet for the State to be called to-morrow.

LATE WINNERS AT NEW ORLEANS.

Fourth—James Reddick 6-5, Exotism 7-5 pl., Gold Mat 5 Fifth—Bonart 3-1, Buren Arnold Arnold 4-5 pl., Dry Dollar

MANY HORSES DIE IN FIRE SET BY MISCHIEVOUS BOYS

Mischiefous boys are credited with having kindled a fire which swept through the big barns of the American Ice Company on Second avenue at One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street this afternoon. Before the flames arrived the flames had spread to the stables of Contractor McAvoy and were threatening Salter's Harlem River Park.

In the ice company's barn were 120 draught horses. McAvoy's stables contained thirty. Ten were got out, but the sweep of the flames in the larger building was so rapid that a number of the animals there were suffocated or burned to death.

The streets in the neighborhood were soon full of wildly galloping horses, endangering the crowd that had gathered.

While trying to rescue horses Jim Cochran, captain of an ice-boat moored in the East River, was kicked and badly hurt.

SHOPPERS SEE BRAVE ACT

In attempting to stop a runaway horse today at Twenty-third street and Broadway, Police John P. Day, of the Traffic Squad, was painfully injured. He was dragged across Twenty-third street and half way to Twenty-second street before the bridge broke and dropped him under the horse's feet.

Crowds of women shoppers saw the brave policeman stop the runaway and crowded around him with congratulations when they learned that his injuries would not prove serious.

The animal was fresh from the country. Alexander McKenzie was driving the cab, bound for Washington Square from the Waldorf-Astoria with a youth about sixteen years old as a passenger. The horse took fright at a steam roller at Twenty-fifth street and bolted.

Mckenzie was unable to saw the reins cordably enough to stop the frightened animal. The Fifth avenue crossings at Twenty-third street were crowded with women and children. Day, from his station on the north crossing, in front of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, saw the horse coming, shouted a warning and braced himself.

As the animal reached him he made a spring and reached the bridle. He conformed his efforts to keeping the animal from turning into Twenty-third street. But when he succeeded in stopping it had not the bridle broke. Luckily the horse did not step on him as he fell, but one of the wheels of the harness passed over his legs. Just below Twenty-second street the cab locked wheels with an express wagon standing at the curb. McKenzie was hurled from his seat and the horse came to a stop. The driver was not injured.

THAW RAILS AT JEROME

Owing to the absence of District Attorney Jerome from the city there was no argument today before Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court, on the application of Harry Thaw's counsel to take the testimony of absent witnesses in the Stanford White murder case. Clifford W. Harridge, Thaw's lawyer, had served notice that he expected to press his motion today, but when he learned Mr. Jerome would not be here he consented to a postponement until Monday.

The witnesses whom he desires to have examined by a commission are Thomas McCalley in Chicago, and Truett Beale in Bakersville, Cal. Monday had been the date originally set for the argument.

Samuel Styles, following a custom of the jail went through the corridors awakening the prisoners with cheery salutations. The cells on the ground floor are opened automatically by a lever controlled from a central point in the corridor. Styles pulled the lever, the locks dropped from the cell doors and the prisoners swarmed out. The prisoners went on about their business.

The six knew full well that between them and the cold world outside there was nothing but an open window and a board fence. They negotiated these two obstacles without loss of time and accuracy and in the gray dawn in the direction of the Long Island Railroad tracks.

TAKES BABY TO PRISON

Irene McCarthy, alias Irene Brown, twenty-three years old, of No. 22 West Eighty-third street, was sent to the Bedford Reformatory today by Justice Greenbaum, sitting in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court.

She had pleaded guilty to being the accomplice of the gang of Wall street forgers, headed by her husband, Charles McCarthy, who were rounded up some time ago. Of the group McCarthy and Charles Montweller, who did the for-

MRS. MCGOWAN IN HOSPITAL AFTER STRANGE MISHAP

Wife of President of Board of Aldermen Injured in Street.

DELIRIOUS FROM PAIN.

Not Yet Able to Explain the Accident, Which Happened Wednesday.

Mrs. Patrick F. McGowan, wife of President McGowan of the Board of Aldermen, is in the Polyclinic Hospital, on East Thirty-fourth street, suffering from injuries received in some unknown manner Wednesday evening at Fourteenth street and Second avenue.

Her left leg is broken at the ankle, her back wrenched and her face bruised, undoubtedly from striking a car as she fell on the pavement. Dr. Chetwood, of the Polyclinic Hospital staff, Dr. Bowdoin, a bone specialist, and Dr. Martin Burke, President McGowan's family physician, have been caring for Mrs. McGowan.

No grave consequences are apprehended, but Mrs. McGowan is suffering a good deal from the severe hurts she received. The accident chanced just before President McGowan and his wife were to start for their Thanksgiving holiday in Newport, where they were to remain until Monday.

When Mr. McGowan arrived home Wednesday evening he found his home crowded with strangers and his two women helpers trying to care for Mrs. McGowan, who was falling into a kind of swoon every few minutes and whose leg was bleeding. Mr. McGowan did not know at first the leg was broken, but he telephoned for Dr. Chetwood, who could not be found immediately.

When Dr. Chetwood arrived he was accompanied by Dr. Bowdoin. President McGowan and sent for Dr. Burke as well. Dr. Chetwood said it was impossible for Mrs. McGowan in her bad condition to remain at home and he had her taken to a hospital. An ambulance was procured from Bellevue in which she was taken to the Polyclinic. There the leg was set, which had sustained a compound fracture, and treated and the wrenched back found not to be dangerous, though it has since caused severe pain. Her condition has not improved because of the great pain she has suffered. She has been delirious at times. The physicians are carefully and constantly attending her.

Mrs. McGowan's condition was such that she appeared to have been taken care of since she had been taken to the hospital. She had not told what happened to her, but Dr. McGowan said he did not think she had been run over. At that point the street is torn up and congested, and he thought that in the rush to and fro cars she may have been knocked down and walked on the broken sidewalk by herself and walked on the broken sidewalk by herself and walked on the broken sidewalk by herself.

Cheerfully Admits Lying.

He admitted that he was an expert swimmer and diver, yet frankly confessed that he made no effort to reach Grace Brown after she went into the lake, made no cry for help, simply swam ashore, got his suit case, threw away collar, tennis racket and umbrella and fled.

He insisted he had no intention of taking a long tramp into the woods, yet admitted that he wore khaki leggings, carried a soft hat in his suit case, which replaced the straw hat of floating on the lake, and took out a map for Eagle Bay, which he had studied out on a map.

He admitted that he was an expert swimmer and diver, yet frankly confessed that he made no effort to reach Grace Brown after she went into the lake, made no cry for help, simply swam ashore, got his suit case, threw away collar, tennis racket and umbrella and fled.

He insisted he had no intention of taking a long tramp into the woods, yet admitted that he wore khaki leggings, carried a soft hat in his suit case, which replaced the straw hat of floating on the lake, and took out a map for Eagle Bay, which he had studied out on a map.

Liner St. Paul Wires

OF BATTLE WITH STORM.

Steamship Ran into Gale Early

To-Day and Will Be 24 Hours

Late Arriving.

A wireless message received here today from Capt. Passow, of the American liner steamship St. Paul, says that the St. Paul has encountered extremely severe weather during the voyage from Boston. She will be about thirty-four hours late in reaching her dock in this city.

Pasnow's message was sent at 5 o'clock this morning when the St. Paul was 53 miles east of Sandy Hook Light.

It says that a heavy northeast gale which began at midnight continued at the hour the despatch was sent.

NEW ORLEANS RESULTS.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—The races here today resulted as follows:

FIRST RACE—Three-quarters of a mile—GMA, 4 to 1, 1 Frank Flasher (5 to 2 for place) 2, Monere 3. Time—1:02 3-5.

SECOND RACE—One mile—Beecher (5 to 1 and 5 to 1) 1, Flamingo (6 to 1 for place) 2, Pride of Woodstock 3. Time—1:40 4-5.

THIRD RACE—One mile—Beecher (5 to 1 and 5 to 1) 1, Flamingo (6 to 1 for place) 2, Pride of Woodstock 3. Time—1:40 4-5.

FOURTH RACE—One mile—Beecher (5 to 1 and 5 to 1) 1, Flamingo (6 to 1 for place) 2, Pride of Woodstock 3. Time—1:40 4-5.

FIFTH RACE—One mile—Beecher (5 to 1 and 5 to 1) 1, Flamingo (6 to 1 for place) 2, Pride of Woodstock 3. Time—1:40 4-5.

SIXTH RACE—One mile—Beecher (5 to 1 and 5 to 1) 1, Flamingo (6 to 1 for place) 2, Pride of Woodstock 3. Time—1:40 4-5.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile—Beecher (5 to 1 and 5 to 1) 1, Flamingo (6 to 1 for place) 2, Pride of Woodstock 3. Time—1:40 4-5.

EIGHTH RACE—One mile—Beecher (5 to 1 and 5 to 1) 1, Flamingo (6 to 1 for place) 2, Pride of Woodstock 3. Time—1:40 4-5.

NINTH RACE—One mile—Beecher (5 to 1 and 5 to 1) 1, Flamingo (6 to 1 for place) 2, Pride of Woodstock 3. Time—1:40 4-5.

Cowardly Admission that He Made No Effort to Save Girl Only One of Many Forced from Him by Prosecutor Ward

FIREMEN FIGHT WITH MOB ABOUT THE COURT-HOUSE

Bailiffs and Sheriff Unable to Hold Curious Throng in Check—Prisoner Is Cool Under Fierce Fire of Cross-Examination.

(Special from a Staff Correspondent)

HERKIMER, Nov. 30.—"And you, Chester Gillette, an expert swimmer, swam ashore and let this girl sink to the bottom of Big Moose," thundered Prosecutor Ward at the cross-examination of Gillette, on trial for killing Grace Brown.

"I did," was the easy, almost nonchalant, reply, and the District Attorney, striking his fist on the table, cried in mingled disgust and amazement: "Good God! What effrontery!"

It was the last question before recess, and Gillette, smiling and without trace of nervousness, sprang from the chair and hurried to his counsel. He had made many damaging admissions, but none more so than that his only effort to save Grace Brown from her alleged suicide was to reach his hand toward her as she leaped from the other end of the boat, thirteen feet away from him.

He had admitted using a false name for himself and concealing the girl's name during the trip until he wrote "Grace Brown, of South Oselet," on the hotel register, just before going on that lake ride from which she was not to return alive.

He admitted carrying all his belongings in the boat, including overcoat, tennis racket, umbrella besides his suit, while even her hat was left at the hotel, yet insisted that when they started on the trip into the north woods he intended to marry the girl and not return to Cortland.

He admitted that he had left all his personal belongings on the bank of the lake, safe and dry, and rowed about for three hours, without any thought of returning for them until the waters of Big Moose had swallowed up the body of the girl, he had rowed.

He admitted that he was an expert swimmer and diver, yet frankly confessed that he made no effort to reach Grace Brown after she went into the lake, made no cry for help, simply swam ashore, got his suit case, threw away collar, tennis racket and umbrella and fled.

He insisted he had no intention of taking a long tramp into the woods, yet admitted that he wore khaki leggings, carried a soft hat in his suit case, which replaced the straw hat of floating on the lake, and took out a map for Eagle Bay, which he had studied out on a map.

He admitted that he was an expert swimmer and diver, yet frankly confessed that he made no effort to reach Grace Brown after she went into the lake, made no cry for help, simply swam ashore, got his suit case, threw away collar, tennis racket and umbrella and fled.

He insisted he had no intention of taking a long tramp into the woods, yet admitted that he wore khaki leggings, carried a soft hat in his suit case, which replaced the straw hat of floating on the lake, and took out a map for Eagle Bay, which he had studied out on a map.

He admitted that he was an expert swimmer and diver, yet frankly confessed that he made no effort to reach Grace Brown after she went into the lake, made no cry for help, simply swam ashore, got his suit case, threw away collar, tennis racket and umbrella and fled.

He insisted he had no intention of taking a long tramp into the woods, yet admitted that he wore khaki leggings, carried a soft hat in his suit case, which replaced the straw hat of floating on the lake, and took out a map for Eagle Bay, which he had studied out on a map.

He admitted that he was an expert swimmer and diver, yet frankly confessed that he made no effort to reach Grace Brown after she went into the lake, made no cry for help, simply swam ashore, got his suit case, threw away collar, tennis racket and umbrella and fled.

He insisted he had no intention of taking a long tramp into the woods, yet admitted that he wore khaki leggings, carried a soft hat in his suit case, which replaced the straw hat of floating on the lake, and took out a map for Eagle Bay, which he had studied out on a map.

He admitted that he was an expert swimmer and diver, yet frankly confessed that he made no effort to reach Grace Brown after she went into the lake, made no cry for help, simply swam ashore, got his suit case, threw away collar, tennis racket and umbrella and fled.

He insisted he had no intention of taking a long tramp into the woods, yet admitted that he wore khaki leggings, carried a soft hat in his suit case, which replaced the straw hat of floating on the lake, and took out a map for Eagle Bay, which he had studied out on a map.

He admitted that he was an expert swimmer and diver, yet frankly confessed that he made no effort to reach Grace Brown after she went into the lake, made no cry for help, simply swam ashore, got his suit case, threw away collar, tennis racket and umbrella and fled.

He insisted he had no intention of taking a long tramp into the woods, yet admitted that he wore khaki leggings, carried a soft hat in his suit case, which replaced the straw hat of floating on the lake, and took out a map for Eagle Bay, which he had studied out on a map.

EVENING WORLD'S RACING CHART

Nov. 30. Thirteenth Day at Benning. Track Fast.

1309 FIRST RACE—$400 added. Highweight Handicap, for two-year-olds; six furlongs. Post time—1:15. Winner, B. C. by Balchou, Ben. Min. Hambley. Owner, J. E. Madden.

Index	Strutless	Wts.	Sts.	Pls.	Fin. Jockeys	Open High Clos. Pls.
(1280) Temmerlake	101	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1270) Zienap	111	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1281) Belle Strome	110	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1282) Cabochon	109	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1283) Yorkist	108	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1284) Old Colony	107	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1285) Niblick	106	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1286) Quaddille	105	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1287) Waterbearer	104	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1288) How About You	103	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1289) Reidmores	102	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1290) Lord of Vale	101	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1291) Pater	100	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1292) Cederstrome	99	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1293) Luretta	98	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1294) Avanteur	97	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1295) Temmerlake	96	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1296) Zienap	95	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1297) Belle Strome	94	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1298) Cabochon	93	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1299) Yorkist	92	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1300) Old Colony	91	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1301) Niblick	90	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1302) Quaddille	89	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1303) Waterbearer	88	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1304) How About You	87	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1305) Reidmores	86	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1306) Lord of Vale	85	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1307) Pater	84	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1308) Cederstrome	83	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1309) Luretta	82	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1310) Avanteur	81	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1311) Temmerlake	80	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1312) Zienap	79	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1313) Belle Strome	78	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1314) Cabochon	77	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(1315) Yorkist	76	2	15	11	11 Miller	12 6.5 6.5 2.5 1.3
(